SHOCKING A COMMUNITY

By FERDINAND M. ISSERMAN

Despatches from Great Britain on December 19th indicated that Andrew Gibson, a member of the town council of Edinburgh, shocked not only his fellow-councilmen but also the city of Edinburgh as well as all of England by a novel motion. His motion was that "Christ's law be made the foundation of every discussion and act of the council." The motion was eventually killed as incompetent after legal experts had been consulted. Think of it, that a community and a nation should be shocked by the powerful plea of an individual to practice the ideals of its religious prophet. Does not the vote of the town council indicate that that council has repudiated Christianity? After two thousand years, some legislators decide that the teachings of Christianity are incompetent and cannot be used to dominate the affairs of a city. The whole incident reveals clearly one of the great difficulties of religion. It has taught beautiful ideals, but man has lacked the courage to apply them. The world needs applied religion. We are with you, Andrew Gibson, even though you stand alone in Edinburgh. The world will be unhappy until it stands where you stand. And furthermore, Andrew, those ethical ideals that you want applied in your civic administration were born in the souls of Jewish prophets—including the commandment, "Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself."—(Lev. XIX).

CHANGE THE DATE OF THE MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS

The statistics of the past municipal elections should cause every citizen of Toronto to pause and reflect. There are 278,579 names on the voters' list in Toronto. Of these but 87,638 voted in the mayoralty contest. The successful candidate for mayor did not even receive a majority of the votes cast. If the voters' lists are correct, Mayor Foster was re-elected by 15.2 per cent. of those eligible to vote. This means that less than one-sixth of the residents of the city of Toronto elected its presiding officer for the coming year. Not even one-third of the citizens of Toronto cast their votes in the recent municipal elections.

When we study the aldermanic charts, the results reveal more clearly minority government in Toronto. Of the twenty-four aldermen elected, six received the sanction of less than one-fifth of the electors in their wards. Four were elected by less than one-sixth of the voters in their wards; eight by less than one-seventh; three by less than one-eighth; two by less than one-ninth and one by less than one-eleventh of the voters in his ward. These are indeed startling figures, especially when it is recalled how strenuous the efforts have been to get people out to vote.

What do these figures indicate? Firstly, that most of the citizens of Toronto are neglecting to use their franchise—a citizen's most sacred privilege in a democracy. Secondly, that people are either indifferent to the municipal administration or disgusted with the petty chicanery of ambitious self-seeking politicians. Thirdly, that the choice of a day for municipal election is a most unfortunate one. New Year's day is the sleepiest day in the year. The night before—well, what's the use of talking about it? To say that there

THE DEATH OF AHAD HA'AM

Only four months ago the Jewish world celebrated the seventieth birthday of its favorite thinker—Asher Ginsberg, better known by his pseudonym of Ahad Ha'Am. This week there is sorrowing and mourning. Ahad Ha'Am is no more.

Ahad Ha'Am was the most consistent and logical exponent of the modern doctrine of Jewish nationalism. It was from his clear formulation of the significance of Jewish existence that modern Zionists thought evolved its fundamental concepts and conclusions.

During the first three-quarters of the last century, the chief problem in Jewish life in Europe was to determine the proper reaction on the part of the Jews towards the new condition of emancipation which confronted them.

In the early part of the century, French and German Jews took the position that Jewishism meant nothing more than the observance of a certain type of religious ritual. The accumulation of traditions, customs, manners and attitudes was regarded merely as a collection of useless and obsolescent rubbish. The world offered civil and political rights at a price. The Jews were prepared to pay the price. They were glad to surrender their group characteristics. All that they wished to reserve was a bare residue of religious independence, which was to be rendered as indistinct as possible.

Krochmal, Rappaport, Geiger, Zunz, and the other scholars and thinkers of the period who founded what is known as "Judaica" or Jewish science, by their very activities gave countenance to the doctrine of the sterility of contemporary Jewish life. They knew that Jewish existence had a meaning. They sought for it in history, in the cultural achievements of the past. By stressing the creativeness of the past they fell in with the prevailing notion of the impotence of the present.

Kalischer and Moses Hess, in the middle of the century, and somewhat later, were the first to appreciate the vital potentialities of the Jewish people, and dreamt of a future of national creativeness. Their voices, however, were lost in the wilderness.

In Russia and Poland, too, during the first stages of the so-called enlightenment, the attitude of the neophytes was one of eagerness to meet the surrounding culture more than half way. The "maskilim" (enlightened ones) were only too ready to shed their Jewish characteristics and adopt the manners and ideas of the environment. They felt that the content of Jewishism was merely one of antiquated beliefs and obsolete customs, which had lost all value, and had better be dropped.

Due to a variety of circumstances, this view of Jewishism soon began to lose ground, and the idea that Jewish life had the deeper significance of the functioning of a national organism came to the fore. Smolenskin, Dr. Pinsker and a host of other writers began to preach the doctrine of Jewish nationalism. This was giving the problem of Jewish emancipation a new interpretation.

It was Ahad Ha'Am, however, who was the first among the modern Jewish thinkers (counting Hess as belonging to a previous generation) to work out the logical implications of the nationalist

Zipes—Berbrier

The marriage of Anne, daughter of Mrs. S. Berbrier, and the late Mr. Berbrier, to Moe, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Zipes, was solemnized Sunday, December 26, in Bnai Jacob Synagogue, Rabbi S. Herschorn officiating, assisted by Rev. Baker. The bride, who was given away by her brother, Morris Berbrier, wore a gown of white chiffon taffeta, with lace and rhinestone trimming. Her veil of silk net was arranged in coronet effect with rhinestones and pearls, with clusters of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of lilies-of-the-valley and white roses. The maid of honour, Miss Lillian Zipes, wore a white crepe romaine gown trimmed with sequins, with a coronet of sequins. The bridesmaids were Misses Ruth Granofsky, in white chiffon velvet trimmed with velvet pansies; Bess Grossman, apricot chiffon taffeta and gold lace trimming; Rae Zipes, maize chiffon taffeta trimmed with net; Edith Pololsky, maize chiffon taffeta, trimmed with net; and Molly Leibovitz, rose chiffon taffeta trimmed with net. They all carried bouquets of pink roses. The best man was Bill Berbrier. The groomsmen were Sam Wellcovitch, Harold Titleman, H. Shoob, Abe Berbrier and Abe Cooper. Mrs. B. Berbrier, mother of the bride, wore a black gown of crepe back satin trimmed with gold lace. Mrs. A. Zipes, mother of the groom, wore a cut velvet gown. Dinner was served to three hundred guests. The out-of-town guests were I. and H. Zipes, of New York. Mr. and Mrs. M. Zipes will live in Brooklyn, N.Y.

Litwack—Rosenthal

The marriage of Miss Sophie Rosenthal, daughter of B. Rosenthel, to John Litwack, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Litwack, was solemnized at the New Beth Jehudah Synagogue, Tuesday, December 28, Rabbi S. Herschorn officiating. The bride, who was given away by her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. J. Wiener, wore a white silk gown, trimmed with lace. Her veil of silk lace was arranged in cap effect with wreaths of orange blossoms over her hair. She carried a bouquet of roses and lilies-of-the-valley. Miss Annaley Margolis was maid-of-honour in a pink gown with velvet bodice and frilled skirt studded in rhinestones, and carried a bouquet of orchids and American beauties. The bridesmaids were Misses Jean Kaplan in a silver cloth dress trimmed with taffeta, who carried a bouquet of roses and marigolds; Mattie Litwack, powder blue and pink georgette, who carried a shower of roses and carnations; Bea Litwack, maize beaded gown trimmed with tulle, who carried roses and lilies-of-the-valley; and Annie Drimer, in a Burgundy gown trimmed with lace, who carried a shower of roses and orchids. Hyman Drimer was best man. Lionel Litwack was page boy. The train bearers, Yettie and Sylvia Litwack, wore frocks of nile taffeta and carried baskets of flowers. A reception was held for 300 guests. The bride and groom were presented with a large silver candelstick from the synagogue Temple Solomon, and with a set of silver cutlery from the King Edward Society, of which B. Rosenthal, the bride's father, was one of the organizers twenty years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Litwack left for New York. They will live in Montreal.

BARON DE HIRSCH BOOK CLUB

Baron de Hirsch Book Club meeting in the assembly hall Sunday evening, January 2, was attended by 400 persons.

The moving picture, "A Trip Across Canada," describing the University of Montreal's and the Teachers' Association tour, was shown by the C.P.R. Explanations about Canada in Yiddish and in English were made by the chairman, A. J. Livinson. Cantor Osias Blumen gave a Hebrew song by Pinchos Jassinowsky, entitled "The Prophecy of Isaiah." Miss Vera Blumen accompanied.

Rabbi J. L. Zlotnick, director of the Zionist Organization of Canada, gave an address on "Ahad Ha'Am and Modern Jewish Life and Philosophy." He said that Ahad Ha'Am had devoted most of his life of seventy years to the cause of Judaism. "The Jewish heart held the secret of Jewish freedom," declared Ahad Ha'Am, and this thought was stressed in all his writings. The ideal to be aimed at was that of the ideal of Moses, and Ahad Ha'Am wrote an essay on this subject. Ahad Ah'Am preached patience in all things, for he believed that the Jewish future, though based on circumstances, was nevertheless controlled by the present, and was secure if the present were well looked after. The lessons of Jewish life in Egypt and in the wilderness were applied by Ahad Ha'Am to modern Jewish life. He felt that the Jewish future was therefore also dependent upon the generation of the young, who are coming up. The vote of thanks was proposed by the honorary president, R. H. Blumenthal, seconded by Louis Glazer. The meeting was presided over by the president, A. J. Livinson.

YOUNG JUDAEA

In its recent National Fund Campaign, Young Judaea raised over six hundred dollars. The prizes were awarded at a concert on December 26. Golden Book certificates were given to the Pearl Haller Circle and the Tel Aviv Girls. The senior individual prize, donated by Dr. M. Wiseman, was won by N. Shuster, Sons of David Club; intermediate prize, donated by R. A. Darwin, was won by Miss T. Levitt, Balfouria Circle. The junior prize, donated by Dr. A. O. Freedman, has not yet been awarded, as the results of the Junior Clubs have not yet been completed. I. J. Wainer announced the following results: Collected by Young Judaea Clubs, $400.00; by Shaar Hashomayim Sunday School, $120.00; by United Talmud Torah, $100.00. Max Garmaise, Joe Frank, H. Leodon, A. Berlin and Miss Ann Gordon were on the committee in charge. Eddel, Abramson and Bernstein were in charge of publicity. Accounting was done by Ellman and Bauman. Samuel Chait, educational director, was in charge of the educational work. Standing of Senior Basketball League:

MONTREAL vs. OTTAWA DEBATE

The debate between Montreal and Ottawa Young Judaea takes place at Ottawa the first week in February. The Debaters will be selected through elimination at an impromptu speaking contest on Sunday afternoon, January 9, at 5 p.m., in the Zionist Hall. One girl and one boy will be chosen.

The drought which prevailed in the Jerusalem district was broken last week by a heavy rainfall, which was greeted with joy by the population. The poorer classes suffered greatly as a result of the drought and special services had been arranged by the Chief Rabbinate recently when the prayers for rain were recited.

A Jewish teacher in Starodub, White Russia, was sentenced to two months' imprisonment at hard labour, because he was conducting a Cheder where eight children received religious instruction. The court passing the sentence consisted entirely of Jewish Judges.

Vandals broke into the old Jewish cemetery of Breslau, which is regarded as a historic landmark, and desecrated twenty old tombstones. The perpetrators of the crime have not been discovered.

DISCOVERY OF THIRD WALL OF JERUSALEM ANNOUNCED

The Jewish Archaeological Society, of Palestine, working under the auspices of the Hebew University, announced last week the discovery of the Third Wall of Jerusalem, known as the Agrippa Wall, which aroused great interest among all students of Jewish history. The wall is mentioned in Josephus and its limitations have now been definitely fixed. A gateway between two towers, opposite the tomb of Queen Helena, of Adiabene, the famous convert to Judaism during the last years of the Jewish state, has been unearthed. The foundations of the Herodian Tower are now visible to the northeast corner of the temple area. It is expected that the discovery of this wall will help in finding the exact sites of some of the places which Christians have considered sacred territory.

Professor Sir William H. Flinders Petrie, the famous Egyptologist, has arrived in Gaza, the ancient Philistine town near the Sinai Peninsula, where he will shortly start excavations on behalf of the British School of Archaeology.

Sir Ronald Storrs, former Governor of Jerusalem, announced, prior to his departure for Cyprus, that the Pro-Jerusalem Society which he founded eight years ago, has been dissolved. The Society has accomplished considerable service in preserving archaeological remains and restoring some interesting monuments in the old part of the city. The dissolution of the society was brought about mainly because its work is now being done more efficiently by other organizations of a more permanent character and by the Palestine Government itself.

At the same time, we hear of the formation in Berlin of a German Pro-Palestine Committee, which includes some of the foremost men of affairs in Germany. Those who attended the first meeting included ministers of the Government of both Prussia and Germany and men and women of all walks of life in Germany. State Secretary Puender welcomed the meeting on behalf of the chancellor and declared that the German State is very much interested in the development of Palestine. Count von Bernstoff acted as the toastmaster at the banquet and toasts were responded to by Kurt Blumenfeld, a leader in Zionist work in Germany, and Rabbi Leo Baeck.

The Palestine Department of Agriculture, Forests and Fisheries has recently issued its report in which it speaks of the fine work accomplished by the Agricultural Experimental Station maintained by the Keren Hayesod. It says that the Arab community has largely benefited from the increased immigration and industrial activity which have demanded an abnormal demand for all classes of products, with a resulting inflation in prices and cost of living.

Among the plans of Pinhas Rutenberg, the promoter of the Palestine Electric Corporation, is the erection of a railway to the tomb of the Prophet Elijah on Mount Carmel, Haifa, for which the Haifa municipality will grant the concession.

The Palestine Loan bill was passed by the House of Lords upon the third reading. The bill authorizes the British Exchequer to endorse the Palestine Government loan of $22,000,000 for the purpose of introducing some definite improvements in the country. Sir Herbert Samuel presented his views on the present condition and future prospects of Palestine before the Palestine Committee of the House.

The various rumours that became current during last week about the resignation of Lord Plumer have been categorically denied in London.

JEWS IN SOVIET RUSSIA

The efforts to stem the wave of anti-Semitism that has been infesting Soviet Russia are progressing apace and it appears that the officials of the government are interested in checking the movement. The recent convention held in Moscow revealed that some of the more cultured classes of the population are not entirely free from this prejudice. An official announcement was now made that out of the fifteen People's Commissars not a single one is a Jew. The Central Executive Committee of the Communist Party, consisting of 581 members, includes only thirty Jews. The Communist Partt has only 30,000 Jewish members, although its general membership exceeds a million. It is also declared that while the Jewish population in Soviet Russia is 11 per cent. of the total population of the country, Jewish officials in government positions form only 8 per cent. of all officials. Of the 209 members of the Moscow Soviet Executive, only fourteen are Jews.

Year in and year out as campaigns come and go and elections are held by organizations and communal institutions, the same people head the campaigns or are elected to office or, what is worse, head the campaigns and are elected to office in the same several organizations at the same time. In most Jewish communities, perhaps, the monopoly on control is obvious, and so, therefore, is the reason for the lethargy of which leaders are wont to complain. Rather than watch a few people do the managing all the time in most of the important organizations and institutions, thousands stay outside the bigger circles to the detriment of the circles if not of themselves. It would be much better for campaigns, for funds, for organizations, communities and workers if, some fine day, such a godsend came as a complete shake-up, making small contributors presidents, presidents just plain on-lookers and vice-presidents the refreshment conveners.

This is not meant to imply at all that men and women now in office and on executive boards where they have been for a long time are not capable or that they are not zealous, fine people. Perhaps they are too capable to want to relinquish or to want to be relinquished. In most cases, undoubtedly, they have been chosen because they seemed the best people for the place, but in many cases it is quite possible that they have been chosen out of habit and because they themselves were only too willing to be tendered the office once again. It is good for an organization to make a wise selection in officers and executive, but times change, youngsters grow up and new citizens move here to live. Must a wise selection stay the same selection for a decade? Not in organizations whose vigorous life depends even in part on whether or not they are democratic.

For the same people to hold the same communal offices all the time is to assume, and falsely, that there are none others just right for the place. There are hundreds and thousands of potential Jewish communal workers who remain disinterested because of the stagnation established by unchanged directorates and controlling officers. The firmer the hold of a few on the conduct of an organization the weaker the interest, the real interest, of the many. The strength of the large Polish communities in American cities is due principally to the fact that almost every member is on some committee or holds some office and that members are switched about. The institutions belong to every member of the community and the interest is maintained because everyone has something to do to hold the entire fabric together.

It is the duty of an officer, once elected, to interest new people in communal work and to bring forward any members who want to work for recognition. There are people in every community who yearn for recognition, a perfectly human yearning. The years go by, often, and they are unnoticed when some small place should have been found for their energy and eagerness. They constitute a valuable asset constantly being overlooked because officers are too busy in their ruts to want to develop new material. For every person who shrinks from communal activity and is sometimes lamented there are at least two eager for it and neglected. Many of the afternoon bridge players and the evening pinochle players, who want a means of self-expression, might be attracted by organization work if activities in it were kept brisk as they should be.

Within the past five years practically no new names have been added to the powers that be among the more important organizations and institutions of Toronto. During that time youths grew to maturity and men of age became settled in homes of their own. Where are they? If the Jewish community is ever going to increase its leadership, these young men should be making their mark even though a few of the older ones step down to give way. To elect a young fellow president instead of his father might just turn the trick of changing for the better the character of an institution or the management of an organization. The older people are always bemoaning the indifference of the younger men. Would they be willing to experiment with it by getting out in the herd themselves for a while?

Stagnation can never attract youth or other potential, unaffiliated communal workers. No man is likely to fall all over himself joining some organization whose officers are the same to-day as they were when he wore short trousers. To go on the same to-day, to-morrow and forever more, is to fasten the activities of a community to deadly monotony, to weaken it by failing to renew its stock of leaders, to create an unwholesome atmosphere of decay through age. Why not use the education, the new ideas of youth, the viewpoint of people from other cities and countries who have come here, the personality and enthusiasm so well worth while? Shake off the fear of established custom. Mix the orthodox and reform, the radicals and the tired pant manufacturers, the men and the women, the young and the middle-aged. Avoid duplication of people in offices in several organizations the same year. If a man is in a high place in one organization, let him be a plain, every-day member in the next one. Divide honours and responsibilities, share the burdens, rotate officers and change executive boards. Nothing cataclysmic will happen, but there will be inevitable invigoration from the strong wine of change. f.f.c.

NORTHERN ONTARIO CANADA

Northern Ontario, now open for settlement at fifty cents per acre, contains millions of acres of the finest agricultural land in the world. Its resources in lumber, mineral, water power, fish, game and scenery are immense. The land calls for men to cultivate it, and in return will give health, comfort and prosperity.

What settlers say of the soil, climate, farming and forest life, is told in a most attractive booklet issued under the direction of the Honourable John S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture for Ontario. Full instructions in regards to acquiring a title to these rich agricultural lands are also given.

For free copies write: G. A. ELLIOTT, Director of Colonization, Parliament Buildings, Toronto, Ontario.

What must a family wash think?

Taken from your home to-day by our driver and returned first thing to-morrow morning ready to be ironed, it might well be imagined that your family wash put in a strenuous night. On the contrary, it is subjected to soft water, pure soap and many rinsings—simply that. No laundry can be more considerate of delicate fabrics. Perhaps that is why our list of regular customers has reached the point where we are enlarging our washrooms again. Let your interest in your own good family wash lead you to your telephone.

BRANTFORD

A dance and concert was given by the Balfour Zionist Organization. Mayor J. A. B. Siemin presided. Committee in charge: M. Nusbaum, member of the National Zionist Executive; M. Lupovitch, L. Henkie, S. Fox, C. Schleifer, Ben Harris, N. Noble, I. Farber, J. Miaker and M. White.

Professor Paul Haupt, professor of Semitic language and head of the Oriental Seminary at Johns Hopkins University, died on Wednesday of last week. Although a Christian, Paul Haupt was sent by his father to the local rabbi of Goeritz, Germany, where he resided, to receive instruction in Hebrew, in order the better to understand the Scriptures. With his Hebrew knowledge as a foundation, Haupt went to the University of Leipsig and there became interested in the then new science of Assyriology, taught by Franz Delitzsch. It was at this place that he was spurred on to write his "Sumerian Family Laws," for which he was awarded the degree of Doctor of Philosophy. Growing steadily in scholarship, Haupt became Privat Dozent of the University of Goettingen, under the late Professor Lagarde. In 1882 Dr. Daniel C. Gilman, who was at that time president of Johns Hopkins University, brought him to Baltimore. From the moment of his coming here as head of the Oriental Seminary, Haupt attracted attention with his scientific papers and books bearing on the large field of Semitic learning. Among the best known of these are his "Assyrian Syllabary," his "Nimrod Epic" and his Polychrome Bible, to which some of the most eminent scholars of Europe and America contributed. He was one of the editors of the "Journal of Assyriology," published in Europe.

Professor Reuben Levy, of London, has been appointed lecturer on Persian at Cambridge University.

Subject—The Best Form of Heat—GAS

"I will give seven reasons, one for each day of the week, showing the best kind of heat is Gas. I know this subject, and will give each reason in its own paragraph.

"First — Concentrated heat, by means of Gas, is getting the same or even more from your heating system where you want it than by any other way. With Gas heat you can concentrate on any room. There is no escaping heat from carrier pipes, the heat is concentrated where you want it. This is an advantage that can be had only by using Gas for heating.

"Second—Clean heat by Gas eliminates the handling of dirty coal and ashes. With the Gas you get all the extracted heat that coal contains more thoroughly than could be obtained by burning it in your own fire with the resultant dust.

"Third—There is no waste in heating by Gas. The moment the flame is lit it gives the full heat, and can be shut off instantly when not required. No heat escapes to places not wanted.

"Fourth—Instant heat that radiates to every part of the room. Instantly hot enough to roast, or can instantly be lowered for a gentle simmer may be had with Gas heat.

"Fifth—Heat without toil is no exaggeration. All that has to be done to get heat is apply a match. On the coldest of days strike a match and enjoy the comfort of a nice warm fire without having to shovel coal. All the coal shovelling is done by the Gas Company, and you get the heat. Using Gas for heating gives you heat without toil.

"Sixth—Heat without worry can be had by using Gas. Everyone in your home is contented. No coal trouble, strikes nor storms menace for you if the Gas heat is used.

"Seventh—Healthy heat can be had with all the aforementioned advantages by using Gas for heating. Rooms can be heated to any desired temperature and not over heated, as the Gas is always under the user's control. Fresh air can be admitted and there is no reheating of stale air as in other methods of heating. And all this means that the user of Gas heat enjoys robust and perfect health.

"In conclusion, it is a fact that in the City of New York, where every modern means is used to ensure efficiency and human comfort, Gas heating will be found. All the modern apartments on Broadway and Riverside Drive have the Gas heater. No chances are taken of other heating systems failing, and consequently Gas for heating will be found, as it has proved the best and most satisfactory in the most up-to-date city."

are few early risers on New Year's Day is to put it mildly. Most of the day is spent getting over the effects of the previous night's festivities. It is not a day when voters are apt to get out to vote. It is our opinion that any day but New Years Day would be a better one for elections and would bring out a bigger vote.

An election in which less than one-third of the electors cast their ballots and in which men are elected to office by receiving from less than one-fifth to less than one-eleventh of those eligible to vote for them is a situation which challenges the thoughtful citizen. How to remedy this situation of apathetic citizenship is one of our gravest civic problems. To it this community should give keen study and analysis. Our suggestion would be that twenty-five leading citizens be appointed to study and analyze this situation and report finally to the public. The personnel of this committee should be composed of men who have no political axes to grind, so that their findings would be free from all charges of spartizan bias. The change of election day would help somewhat is our guess, but more necessary than that is a sweeping investigation into the apathy of the average good citizen in his municipal government.

YOUNG JUDAEA

Young Judaea held its first mock parliament Monday, December 27. Subject: "In the opinion of this House, be it resolved that life in Palestine will develop a higher type of Jew, both mentally and physically, than life in the Golus." The governor-general read the speech from the throne. The premier brought the motion before the house. The motion was lost and a motion of lack of confidence in the government was made. It was withdrawn and a coalition was formed of the government and the official opposition. A vote of lack of confidence in the coalition government was then brought in. This was carried. The Reform Party now come into power and the House was adjourned. Several caucus meetings will be hled by the various parties during the next few weeks. Mr. Starkman was speaker; Mr.Sandler, governor-general; Miss T. M. Littner, clerk; and Dr. M. Zimmerman, sergeant-at-arms.

The first of the Inter-Circle weekly debates was held Wednesday evening, December 29, at Ryerson School. Buds of Judah defeated Hasmoneans on the subject, "Resolved, that the modern return from exile constitutes a more difficult task than did the Exodus from Egypt." Chairman, Miss T. M. Littner; judges, Percy Shulman and Herman Rivkin. For further information, Miss Littner, Tr. 3179J. A business and social meeting of the Leaders' Council was held Thursday, December 30, at the home of Miss Hilda Narrol in honour of Eva Bloom, who is leaving for New York, Edward R. Gelber, ex-president and Louis Borsook, ex-supervisor. Miss Bloom gave a financial report, E. E. Gelber, L. Borsook and L. Rasminsky also spoke. Those present were Hilda Narrol, Eva Bloom, Bertha Steinberg, Freda Shleser, Yitta Salamansky, Anne E. Horowitz, Rebecca Corb, Fanny Gordon, Tmima Littner, Yetta Littner, Katherine Pless, Bertha Fried, Minnie Wolfish, Mildred Swartz, Minnie Kaminker, Blanche Feld, Toba Pollick; and Edward E. Gelber, L. Borsook, Lacey Levi, Lou Greenbaum, Maurice Starkman, Dr. Mark Zimmerman, Herman Rivkin, Al Shrifin, Max Donn, Morris Sandler and Louis Rasminsky, Dr. Mark Zimmerman talked on "Anti-Semitism and Jewish Nationalism" to the Fidelis Girls' Club at the home of Miss Avruskin, 217 Gladstone Avenue. The last meeting of the Leaders' Training Course heard Lionel Gelber on "Modern Jewish Problems." Discussion.

attitude, and formulate them in a coherent philosophy.

Space will not permit us to attempt here even a brief exposition of Ahad Ha'Am's philosophy. (We gave a general outline of his doctrines in an editorial in a former issue of this journal when we dealt with the celebration of his seventieth anniversary). From this historical sketch of the background of the Jewish attitude towards the surrounding world, we can gather in a measure the importance of the contribution of Ahad Ha'Am.

The Zionist movement has its leaders who are dealing with the practical phases of its purpose and activities. But a movement cannot have permanence unless its underlying idea harmonizes with the general tendencies of life. Ahad Ha'Am perceived that Jewish existence was a significant historic phenomenon. He correlated the meaning of Jewish life with the deeper meaning of human history. And in doing so he laid the theoretic foundation for the Jewish national movement without which the latter could have no real value or stability.

The new developments in Jewish life have given rise to new problems which require fresh analysis and formulation. Ahad Ha'Am has rationalized the longings and stirrings of a generation that is now gone. It is conceivable that in this generation Ahad Ha'Am could not serve as its seer. But a seer he assuredly was. And the Jewish world at the present time has few prophets who are visioning its problems and its destinies.—A. B. B.

to give your hair the attention it needs

Young women and men who are getting old through neglect of their crowning beauty, the hair, will remember that a few years ago they had a lovely head of hair, and to their regret it has disappeared partially or altogether.

If you had visited Mr. Pember of the Pember Stores, Limited, this could have been postponed for many years. Even now it is not too late to gradually improve your hair and its natural beauty.

No other person can tell you the cause and remove that cause like Pember, Canada's hair specialist, who maintains the largest hair dressing and beauty parlors in Canada.

LOEW'S

Once again Canada is the setting and the actual locale for a stirring modern drama. In Canada "The Canadian" was filmed, and this famous story first seen on the stage as Somerset Maugham's production, "The Land of Promise," has for its screen hero that beloved actor, Thomas Meighan.

"The Canadian" captures the struggle of a group of wheat farmers in their eternal battle against the elements, combining it with a love affair between one of the ranchers and an aristocratic Englishwoman, who, impoverished, comes to the land of promies to start life anew.

Mona Palmer, Wyndham Standing, Dale Fuller and Charles Winninger head the cast. Arthur Stringer, well-known Canadian author, adapted the play to pictures so it will be seen that capable hands have fashioned this great story.

Neither mountains, cowboys or wild Indians figure in the story—and there is no snow. This is a romance of harvest time when the prairies roll golden with countless acres of the finest wheat in the world—a fitting pictorial background for a virile story of Canada.

Five acts of vaudeville are also presented.

STANDARD

"The Horse Thief" will be produced for the first time in Toronto, Wednesday evening, January 12, at a testimonial evening to Isidore Hollander, director of the Hollander troupe. It will be the biggest production of the season and the Yiddish theatre-going public of Toronto will turn out to show Mr. Hollander appreciation.

Those present were Misses Fay Adelman, Tillie Shime, Edith Hoffman, Rose Grover, Rose Korn, Rose Baker, Ray Getek, Eva Roth, Sally Tucker, Anne Shaw, Anne Lesser, Adele Mosten, Anne Grossman, Pearl Ginsburg and Lillian Applebaum; Earl Torno, Sol. Blackstone, H. Shime, Stan Berenstein, Murray Mosten, Dick Winkler, Al. Robins, Dave Tobins, Noah Torno, Moe Musikar, Frankie Laah, Moe Finnstein, Sid Goodman, Harry Stein, Max Silverman, of Ottawa, Murray Glosky, of Detroit. Miss Adele Mosten and H. Shime danced the Black Bottom. Orchestra.

ZIONIST NEWS

Over $25,000 was collected in December for Zionist funds with the rate of expenditure 15 per cent. Collections of last year were the largest in Canadian Zionist work, about $213,000 being collected. Preparations have been made to inaugurate a new Keren Hayesod campaign for one quarter million dollars for 1927. Over $50,000 is still outstanding from last year's campaign. Fifteenth of Shevat, Tuesday, January 18, Arbor day will be dedicated to collections for Herzl Forest.

SHAW'S "FANNY'S FIRST PLAY," IN RESPONSE TO DEMAND

In response to popular demand, the English Repertory Company will stage, next week, George Bernard Shaw's three-act comedy, "Fanny's First Play."

Again we are to be delighted with Shaw's stinging prods and pokes at respectability. At his relentless hands, those purveyors of ladies' millinery, Messrs. Gilbey and Knox, will receive such a distinct setback, when the son of one and the daughter of the other are discovered to have suffered a period in jail.

Both having brought up their children in a "strictly proper" way, such a contretemps as that was insufferable. It is here the radical ideas of the younger generation clash with the traditional views of the parents in sharp and biting contact.

How the young people finally triumph is inimitably portrayed — poignantly punctuated, as it is, by the true shavian wit.

Shaw at his best, some have said.

"Fanny's First Play" was first eprformed at the Little Theatre, in the Adelphi, London, on the afternoon of Wednesday, April 19th, 1911, at which time the identity of the author was concealed.

The reason for this is revealed in the prologue and epilogue to the play which the Theatre Guild of Canada will include in the presentation at the Empire Theatre next week.

The important roles will be undertaken by, among others, Roland Bottomley, William Podmore, Eugene Wellesley, W. Messenger Bollis, Anthony Kemble Cooper, Audrey Ridgewell and Ann Carew.

Seats are now on sale at the box office for all performances next week.

The L. Bamberger and Company department store on Market Street, Newark, announced this week that a sixteen-story addition would be erected adjoining the present structure at a cost of $10,000,000. Construction is expected to begin early next year. With the addition the department store will occupy the entire block bounded by Market, Washington, Bank and Halsey Streets. The addition will double the floor space of the store. It will have thirty-two elevators, a dining room seating 1,500 persons, an auditorium seating 600 and other features.

ANTI-JEWISH EXCESSES CONTINUE IN RUMANIA

It appears that the students in the Rumanian universities who met in conference recently and adopted some anti-Jewish policies are bent upon carrying ing out the policies of their leaders by means of force. In addition to the many atrocities committed by them last week, as reported in these columns, continued excesses were perpetrated by them in Bucharest also the past week. The new slogan is "Numerus Nullus," by which it is understood that they will not rest satisfied until all Jews will be excluded from the universities. Demonstrations were held in the streets of Bucharest, the offices of the liberal newspapers "Rampa" and "Adverul," were attacked and Jewish shops and homes were raided and destroyed. The police arrested several students, but later released them.

The Rumanian Embassy in Warsaw issued a denial of the reports of anti-Jewish excesses that have been published in the European press. A similar denial was also made by the Rumanian Embassy in Washington. A strong protest against the anti-Jewish atrocities in Rumania was sent to the League of Nations by the Club of Jewish Deputies in Poland. Director Eric Colban, of the National Minorities Department of the League, acknowledged the receipt of the protest, but asserted that the League could not act in the matter because the protest was phrased in too strong a language. The Club reiterated its protest, declaring that the phraseology expressed the sentiment of Polish Jewry in the matter and that it hoped that the League will not remain indifferent to the sufferings that the Jews in Rumania have to endure.

Al Jolson, blackface comedian of the stage, still feels the pull of home ties and has demonstrated it by purchasing a home in Washington, D.C., for his aged father and mother. Jolson, who lived in Washington in his childhood, earned his first money there selling newspapers. His parents are the Rev. and Mrs. R. Moses Yoelson.

THE REVOLUTION IN LITHUANIA

The coup d'état carried out in Lithuania last week will undoubtedly have a far-reaching effect on Jewish conditions in that country. The bloodless revolution resembled in many ways the Pilsudski revolution in Poland last May, except that there the movement came from the Left, while in Lithuania it was from the Right. General Smetana, the leader in the present uprising, represents the extreme Fascist reactionaries and while he preferred to remain in the background, as did also Pilsudski, the names of the new Cabinet, as announced last Sunday, include all the leaders of the last reactionary government, which was instrumental in curtailing Jewish rights there. The hopes entertained by Lithuanian Jews for a reconstruction of their national assembly and for the relief of a number of the restrictions imposed by the clerical government will thus remain unrealized and greater restrictions may be expected if the revolutionary forces succeed in maintaining themselves in power for some time.

In this connection, the brief news item that came recently from Riga is of interest. Dr. Narok, a member of the Latvian Parliament, was asked by the President of Latvia to form a new Cabinet. This is said to be the first instance when a Jew was asked to form the Cabinet in any of the Baltic States. Dr. Nurok is a member of the Zionist organization.

The Euclid Avenue Temple (Anshe Chesed Congregation of Cleveland) celebrated its 80th anniversary. Over 1,200 attended the dinner, annual meeting and entertainment, at which the history and progress of the congregation was presented through a dramatic and musical spectacle. Most of the descendants of the pioneering families of the congregation are still active in the congregational life. Rabbi Barnett R. Brickner (Hebrew Union College, 1919) is the rabbi. The congregation is the oldest in Cleveland, having been founded in 1846 when Cleveland contained a Jewish population of but a few families. The congregation includes 1,300 families, comprising about 6,000 people. It has a Sunday School of 1,200, a Sisterhood of 1,600, a Men's Club of 550, and an Alumni Association of 1,000 members. Its budget is $90,000 a year, and its assets are worth over a million and a quarter, on which it owes less than $50,000.

Israel Zangwill left an estate of only about $15,000 and his bequests exceeded his estate. Mr. Zangwill, who died in August, left most of his property to his widow and children, and directed that if there should be any surplus, the balance, up to $5,000, should be left "to the Zionist Organization if, in my wife's opinion, it is building up a Jewish national home."

They Will Bring Light and Power to Palestine

After many years of hard labour and concentration of purpose, Pinhas Rutenberg has finally succeeded in organizing the Palestine Electric Corporation for harnessing Jordan's waters and providing Palestine with light and power. At a meeting in London, in November, the Marquis of Reading, former Viceroy of India, was elected Chairman of the Board of Directors, Pinhas Rutenberg was chosen managing director, and Sir Alfred Mond, Sir Hugo Hirst, James de Rothschild, Bernard Baron and Dr. Railing were elected directors. The working capital required for carrying out the plan has already been subscribed. Mr. Rutenberg left Palestine immediately after the meeting to make preparations for the beginning of operations.
